

Tshego SehloDIMELA is an emerging project professional with over 10 years' experience as scholarly publisher for a leading university press in South Africa. Prior to being certified with her PMP in 2016, Tshego gained a CAPM certification as an entry into project environment. She has been an active volunteer for the PMI South Africa chapter by serving in the roles of VP Marketing and Volunteer Management. She currently volunteers for PMI global on the NextGen Insight Team which serves to support building and growing engagement opportunities for "Next Generation" project managers (NextGen) and other PMI Insight Teams by providing NextGen perspective as needed. The NextGen Insight Team performs sense and responding activities to help ensure the voice and needs of NextGens are heard, valued and supported. Tshego reads for a living and being surrounded by books is her happy place.