

Charles Wartemberg

As both an engineer and a storyteller, Charles is a Product Leader at Microsoft Corp in Redmond, Washington, USA, working on helping employees discover, connect, and grow their careers.

With domain expertise in Security and Privacy, he has over 10 years experience in Technology, E-commerce, Emerging Markets, and Startups. Over his career, he has successfully created new products and enhanced existing products across matrixed organizations. Since joining Microsoft in 2015, Charles has had Product Management and Product Marketing roles on products within Xbox, Windows, and Office 365.

Prior to Microsoft, Charles worked at Amazon.com in Seattle, Washington and McMaster-Carr Supply Company in Chicago, Illinois.

He studied Mechanical Engineering at Tufts University and holds an MBA with a concentration in Statistics, Econometrics and Managerial & Organizational Behavior from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business.

Charles is passionate about technology and mentoring. He is a fan of contemporary art, and a Board Member of the University of Chicago Alumni Club of Seattle.