

Ebo is an award-winning changemaker and a transformational business leader who has delivered major people, technology / digital, brand and process transformations during his tenure with organizations such as Absa, Barclays, Millicom, Vodafone, Santander, KPMG and PricewaterhouseCoopers. He led and successfully delivered the Barclays to Absa transition in Ghana, followed by a number of critical digital transformation programs (including at Absa), and is currently orchestrating a business architecture transformation at Equity Group based in Nairobi.

Ebo is particularly keen on achieving optimal value from technology and change-related investments, and has consistently co-created stakeholder value, as well as delivering improved performance and cost / operational efficiency. He is also a recognized coach and thought-leader and has proffered interesting insights and ideas via published articles and on various international platforms.