

Miishe Addy is co-Founder and CEO of Jetstream Africa, a cross-border e-logistics company for African businesses. Jetstream's vision is to create a thriving ecosystem for trade in Africa. The company is a leading player in African cross-border e-logistics, with operations in Ghana, Nigeria, and Egypt.

Prior to Jetstream, Miishe studied law at Stanford and earned a bachelor's degree from Harvard College. She started her career as a top-ranked strategy analyst for Bain & Company in New York and has worked with global development organizations including TechnoServe and Global Partnerships.