

Raphael Ani leads the global commercialization efforts of the new PMI construction certification. Prior to joining PMI, he worked for Telefonica where he setup and led an innovation consortium that focused on digitizing existing and new infrastructure. The consortium comprised some of global construction and transportation companies, such as; Amey, Hyundai, Network Rail and Connected Places Catapult, to name a few.